THE CHALLENGE OF THE WAR MAKERS

Armies are mobilized in Europe to contest the threat of Germany to dismember Czechoslovakia by force.

There is an even greater mobilization taking place—the mobilization of popular opinion against Adolf Hitler's Nazi regime.

On the eve of the date Hitler has set arbitrarily for surrender of the opposition to his demands, it is clear there will be no surrender. He has challenged once too often. This time the challenge will be answered.

His challenge, though given in the name of the third reich, is broader than that. It includes, also, the right of Japan to invade Manchuria; the right of Italy to invade Ethiopia; the right of Italy and Germany together to try to overthrow a government in Spain.

It is the challenge of the doctrine that nations which have ambitions to control populations outside their own borders should have the right to use force to bring them to their knees.

It is the challenge of politicians who demand the right to use a code of conduct which has been made obsolete by the progress of men toward Christian civilization.

Prime Minister Chamberlain clearly expressed what is in the minds of many when he said Tuesday evening: "Foreign conflict between nations is a nightmare to me. But if I were convinced that any nation had made up its mind to dominate the world by fear of force, I should feel that it must be resisted. Under such a domination the people who believe in liberty would not feel life worth living."

The moral issue has been joined. Germany has been given ample opportunity to escape the stigma of war guilt by participating fully in negotiations for settlement of the Sudeten problem. It has chosen, instead, to disrupt the negotiations with a heavy-handed threat of war unless Czechoslovakia yields.

It is not merely the question of what is going to happen to Czechoslovakia in the face of such a threat, but what is going to happen to international relations in all parts of the world if the policy of aggression adopted by Germany and previously by Japan and Italy when they seized Manchuria and Ethiopia be allowed to continue.

There still are a few hours before the hour of decision for Adolf Hitler and his allies. Everything possible has been done and is being done to make that decision a safe one for Germany and the rest of Europe. But throughout the proceedings so far, Hitler has been in a martial mood. He has deliberately forsaken the way of peace in grasping the Sudeten territory.

He was told Tuesday by Prime Minister Chamberlain that he was inviting war, and Mr. Chamberlain speaks for France as well as Britain. Hitler knows definitely that war with Russia is a certainty. Immediately upon further aggression toward Czechoslovakia. He knows that the United States will be inclined strongly toward Great Britain and France in any clash with Germany. He knows, in brief, that in the present instance might does not make right because he doesn't even have might on his side. Many of his own military advisers have told Herr Hitler that war would be suicide for Germany.

As the moment of decision approaches, with peace hanging in the balance, there is sympathy for the people of Germany. Surely, were they aware of where their leadership was taking them, Adolf Hitler would not today be in a position to create or avert chaos by a personal decision.

CALLING THE TURN

Work relief rolls passed the 3,100,000 mark during the week which ended Sept. 10, continuing a steady rise which began in the middle of the summer. It is estimated they will reach at least 3,139,000 by the end of this month and keep on climbing during the rest of the year.

It is expected, in consequence of the increase, that an emergency appropriation will be requested shortly after congress reconvenes in January. Money is being paid out more rapidly than was anticipated when congress appropriated $1,425,000,000 for eight months; that sum probably will be exhausted in seven months at the most.

This is background for the "demand" which the Workers Alliance made in its national convention in Cleveland—that congress provide 4,000,000 WPA jobs. Previously, the Alliance had demanded 3,000,000 WPA jobs, and it is a matter of record that more than 3,000,000 jobs now are available. It's like the fellow who demanded that the sun be blotted out just before an eclipse was due to take place.

He took the credit and, if memory serves, went on to become a big shot among the deeply impressed natives who didn't know an eclipse was scheduled. At that, no one can blame the Workers Alliance. A national government demanded scarcity in farm production not so many years ago and took credit when an unscheduled drought created scarcity.

GET 'EM WHILE THEY'RE HOT

A fellow with ready cash, or good credit, should be able to do some good for himself at a time like this.

Those terrestrial globes—the kind teacher has on the desk in the geography classroom—cost a couple of dollars when they're new. If they're the size of a pumpkin, they cost more than that.

The going price of wall maps is much less, but then there are a lot more wall maps. Almost everyone who amounts to anything has a wall map stuck up somewhere, or at least rolled up and stuck away in a desk drawer.

Geography books—that's where the proposition begins to get really big. There are hundreds of thousands of geography books, not to mention atlases. A fellow could pick them up very reasonably, if he goes after them while they're still hot.

And what would he do with them and the wall maps and the globes when the map of Europe has been changed around again? Frankly, we haven't figured that out yet; we're still trying to learn what the fellow who bought them at sacrifice prices after the World war did with them.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, September 30

According to the planetary transits, this may be a day in which the mentality will be sharp and alert, which is fortunate, since there are many difficult, perplexing, intriguing and treacherous conditions to cope with. There are signs of fraud, trickery, duplicity and loss unless extra precaution be taken with writings, documents and in agreements with certain undercover or secretive slants.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year beset by many peculiar factors, with confusion and perplexity. They had best use their well-stimulated faculties to unravel or avert sinister situations, schemes or duplicity, with especial care with writings, documents or subtle agreements.

A child born on this day may be of an emotional and imaginative nature, so guileless and confiding as to find itself entrapped in peculiar intrigues or difficulties. But its good intentions and sound aspirations may win the indorsement of important personages. It may have some unusual intellectual gifts.

On a dull day at this period of the year an editorial writer can (and usually does) fill a column or more under the caption, "When and What Is Indian Summer?"

The Duce doesn't smoke, the Fuehrer doesn't drink, the Mikado doesn't swear. It just goes to show what repressions do to people.

A news item says: "The American embassy in Paris has advised Americans in France to return to America if possible." That's good advice for Americans anywhere in Europe.

A news item says: "A third of all weighing machines tested in New York City were found inaccurate." By the way, when has the bureau of standards tested the scales of justice in that city?

Czechoslovakia can join New England in deploring the events that have given them first-page publicity during the last few days.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Laborite member of the British Parliament, is shown above as she made a fiery address to a huge crowd in Trafalgar Square, London, which met in a demonstration to "save the peace" of Europe. Meetings like this took place throughout the country as Chamberlain's cabinet pondered means of preventing a war over Hitler's demands on the Czechs.

Eating The Proper Foods Helps Halt Stomach Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE three points to remember about the physiology of the stomach when we are considering what kind of food to order in illness. One is that digestion in the stomach is largely a preliminary or preparatory process; and second is that the stomach secretes hydrochloric acid as a digestive fluid; and the third is that the stomach tends to right its own wrongs by emptying itself at the slightest provocation.

It goes without saying that in an acute upset of the stomach the best food to give is none at all. In the first place the patient heartily agrees with this if he can be said to do anything heartily) and, most important, the "stomach" upset may be acute appendicitis or some other reflex, in which case food by mouth is distinctly contraindicated.

Preparatory Work
The preparatory work of the stomach consists in churning and mixing the food so that it is reduced to a mass which is easy for the intestinal juices to get at. But if the stomach appears to have difficulty in doing this, the cook can do it just as well. Pured vegetables, finely-minced meat, soups, easily-digested desserts—such as ice cream—toast rather than fresh bread (which gets lumpy when the stomach function is slow), and other items of the smooth diet, are in order. Such diets are good for those chronic dyspeptics who are long and thin, who never have much of an appetite, who have dropped stomachs and constitutions, who distrust their digestion along with everything else in the universe. Hyperacidity applies to the condition of having too much acid secreted by the stomach walls. It is very often a sign of ulcer, but may occur as a nervous reflex. The symptoms are quite characteristic and consist of a feeling of discomfort in the pit of the stomach, usually relieved by food—it is primarily a hunger dyspepsia—then recurring after food has been eaten. There is also likely to be regurgitation of acid fluid into the mouth—sour stomach.

Soda Hounds
These people are soda hounds. They swallow soda bicarbonate incessantly and perfectly naturally, because soda neutralizes their acid.

Diet will do much for them. The foods they need are those which combine with hydrochloric acid most readily. The best article for them is the breast of a lean broiled spring chicken. Every word of that prescription is important. The meat should be lean and broiled, so as to make it as tender and soft as possible. The breast of a spring chicken should be the exactly proper subject for such treatment.

I have known one such dyspeptic who repaired to a restaurant every night before going to bed and ate a dozen raw oysters. They, too, saturated his hydrochloric acid.

Fried foods are likely to upset this type. Toast or stale bread is better for them than fresh. Anything which stimulates hydrochloric acid must be avoided—the three S's, sweet, sour and spiced foods. Pured vegetables are in order. Mashed potatoes are perfect.

Letter of Credit System for Motorists Explained by City Loan

First of a series of four regional meetings scheduled for principal Ohio cities was held in the Mayflower hotel in Akron yesterday by the City Loan organization.

The purpose and feature attraction was the announcement of a new automobile purchase plan known as "letter of credit" financing. By means of it a letter of credit issued by the company becomes alike to currency and is honored by the automobile dealer in payment of a new or used car purchase.

Borts At Meeting
George A. Borts, manager of the City Loan branch in Alliance, and the local office operating staff were present at the meeting, including: John J. Lewis, assistant manager; William A. Robbins, Alton E. Greenamyre, Irene Pulop, Ruth Venable and Ethel Anderson. Some 250 people attended the Akron business assembly and the supper dance during the evening. Over 1,000 representatives of the firm in all are expected to register at the four state conventions which, following the Akron gathering, will be held in Columbus today, Dayton, Oct. 5, and Toledo, Oct. 6.

Send Out 150,000 Letters
T. R. Schaeffer, president, in an interview today, said: "We have just released in the mails 150,000 City Loan letters of credit, issued to our customers throughout Ohio. It is only one out of ten makes use of this automobile purchase credit, it will mean 15,000 newer, safer cars on the road and many hundreds of 'junks' out of the running."

In sponsoring this new form of financing, the City Loan places its entire lending facilities at the disposal of both new and used car buyers. Said to be the third largest personal finance organization in the world, the City Loan maintains 58 branch offices throughout the state and devotes its entire cash resources exclusively to financing Ohio residents.

A Better Way to Treat Constipation!

When you're constipated, it's a great temptation to be satisfied with quick relief. But medicines may become a habit. And they don't keep constipation from returning. It's so much better to get at the cause of the trouble!

If you eat what most people do, chances are the only thing the matter is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean "how much you eat." It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. This crunchy cereal contains both "bulk" and the intestinal tonic, vitamin B. And it's not a drug, not a medicine! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers. Served by restaurants.

FOR AND HULL HOPE FOR PEACE

Feel Confident That Europe May Adjust Its Differences

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull today as feeling confident that some settlement of the Sudeten problem should come from the Anglo-American conference in Munich. There was a noticeable lessening of the tension evidenced in official circles earlier in the week when many there seemed scant hope of averting war.

Embassies Keep Informed
Officials said this government did not have a diplomatic observer at the conference, but that embassies in London, Berlin, Paris and Rome would keep informed as to its progress.

They indicated the United States might refuse—if it were asked—to accept any responsibilities arising from the meeting such as arranging for the transfer of the Sudetenland or a portion of it, to Germany for the transfer of populations. Some officials speculated that an international commission, possibly created by an international police force might be set up to keep order in the Sudetenland while the shift of sovereignty was being made. This was done in the case of the region lying between France and Germany.

While hopeful that the Munich agreement might settle the European issues amicably, government officials did not let their optimism lead them to the possibility of developments as these:

1. A deadlock with Britain and France rigid on one side, Germany adamantly on the other.

2. Czechoslovakia might not be willing to accept any new conditions. (She already is protesting at the conference.)

3. Hungarians in picture.

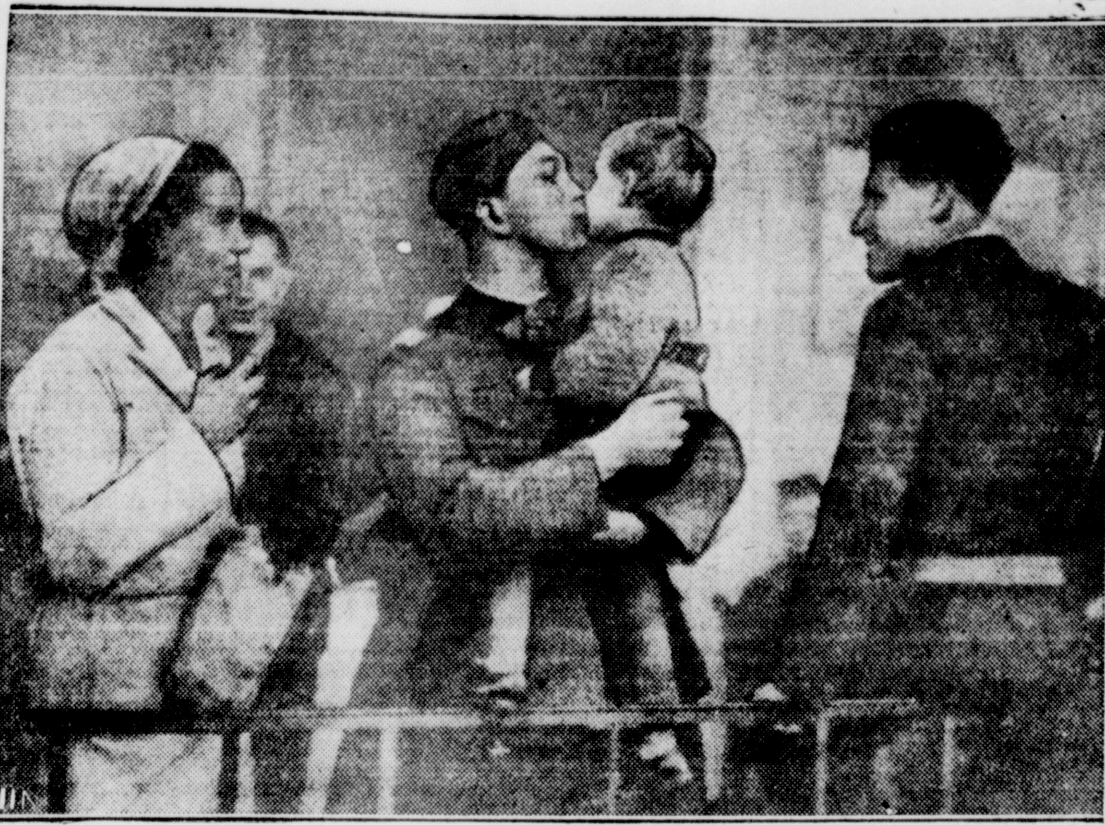

That Mussolini might place too much insistence on settling the claims of his friends, the Hungarians, who assert that seven hundred thousand of their countrymen live in Czechoslovakia.

On the other hand, some optimists of foreign affairs suggested the possibility that from the Munich meeting might come eventually a world conference to adjust economic relations and remove some of the causes of unrest created by the remapping of Europe at the end of the World War.

Mingled with the talk of officials and observers was speculation, too, as to how great an influence in settling the Munich conference President Roosevelt's urgent appeals for peace and his plea for Premier Mussolini to act. Presidential aides said they had no idea, in any case, however, continued negotiations were what the President had so strongly urged.

The work undertaken by American embassies, legations and consulates in getting Americans out of Europe continued unabated. Officials said the situation was deemed too delicate to relax efforts in that direction.

Theatre Attractions

Theater audiences always seem to be partial to comedies and "Three Loves Has Nancy" featuring Janet Gaynor, in the title role, with Robert Montgomery, Franchot Tone and others, is rated one of the best.

The picture shows tonight, Friday and Saturday at the State. Miss Gaynor, as a small-town girl, plays one of her unsophisticated roles against a background of glamour and ultra-modern sophistication. Tone joins with Montgomery in providing the comedy situations. With Richard Thorpe directing, New York City provides the background for a "quadrangle" which involves three men and a girl.

Dedicated To Laughs

"Three Loves Has Nancy," based on a magazine story, is dedicated to laughter from the moment Montgomery finds himself involved with a designing actress until he misses the boat which is to take him on his honeymoon.

It is the story of a novelist who, in escaping the wiles of an actress, goes on a lecture tour of the South. There he meets Nancy, a small-town girl and casually tells her that he will help her if she is ever in New York and needs assistance. When he returns home he finds that the small-town girl is already there. Complications ensue when his best friend and publisher falls in love with Nancy.

The novelist, not realizing that he is also in love with the girl, who, incidentally, is already betrothed, tries to break off the courtship. His attempts are finally successful, but only after a series of comedy situations are generated which keep the laughter at a high level throughout.

Supporting players include Guy Kibbee, Clair Dodd and Reginald Owen in prominent roles.

Pope Calls On World to Pray

(By Associated Press)

CASTLE GANDOLFO, Sept. 29.—Pope Pius asked the world today to have "recourse to the unarmed but invincible power of prayer" to avert "the imminent danger of war."

The pope spoke under the shadow of the meeting at Munich where the heads of western Europe's four most powerful governments were meeting to find a peaceful solution of Germany's demands on Czechoslovakia.

The pope said: "While millions of men live in dread because of the imminent danger of war and because of the threat of unexampled slaughter and ruin, we father the our paternal heart the repudiation of our children and we invite the bishops, clergy, the religious and the faithful to unite themselves with us in the most undaunted and insistent prayer for the preservation of justice and in charity of the peace."

FRENCH READY IF WAR COMES

Decree Authorizes Mobilization of Entire Nation

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The French government was empowered by decree today to mobilize the entire nation for war at a moment's notice, should the Munich conference break down.
While Prime Minister Daladier met with Chancellor Hitler, Premier Chamberlain and Mussolini in the Munich peace parley, the decree appeared in the official journal.
It authorized the government to proceed at its discretion with integral mobilization of man power, industry and finance throughout the nation.
The decree said only "execution of measures contained in the law of July 11, 1938, is authorized," but that law provides for complete mobilization in time of war, or danger of war.

Confiscate Papers
Issues of the newspaper La Liberte, which reprinted Flandin's appeal, were confiscated and many sellers were arrested.
Many citizens and official circles alike held to the opinion that peace could not be had if the heads of the French, British, German and Italian nations failed to work out an agreement at the conference table.
France, nevertheless, noted a feeling of relief among her citizens, because of the belief no one really wanted war and a hope Chancellor Hitler would meet Britain and France half-way in some compromise of the Czechoslovak Sudeten issue.

sen behind him in that effort."
From congratulation, he turned to fire a one-hour salvo of charges: That the Roosevelt administration had gorged political offices with 300,000 occupants without civil service examination; that WPA and other relief work had been infested by vote-getting policies; that finances had been juggled so deceptively as to turn such Democrats as Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia against the party in power; and that a propaganda machine was at work costing at least $20-600,000 a year to operate.
"Feeling the People"
"Every dictator in Europe has proved that by propaganda you can fool enough of the people all the time," he said.
He accused President Roosevelt of pretending to form a new liberal party on principles "hoary with reaction" and of blindly stamping all opposition as conservative.
"If being conservative on dragging America into the morass of political immorality or into the dead sea of reaction is conservative," Hoover said, "then I cheerfully join that party. And that party will yet become the hope of American life."

FERGUSON HITS BRIDGE BUYING

Auditor says State Is Paying Too Much For Toll Span

ue of the bridge did not exceed $1-200,000.

Duffy's office was studying the request.

"The purchase of these bridges may be helpful to the people of Ohio, but we must stop any dealings whereby the bonds are 'watered,'" Ferguson said.

SANDUSKY, Sept. 29.—Nick Stevens, chairman of the Ohio Bridge commission, defended today purchase by the commission of the East Liverpool bridge across the Ohio river, declaring in ten years tolls would make it possible for the span to become "free."

Stevens declared the tolls had totaled $300,000 a year, which he said, was a good income on the investment. He pointed out that Ohio did not have power of condemnation and hence the bridge could be obtained only through purchasing it.

The commission took possession of the bridge Saturday and began collecting tolls immediately.

The purchase, however, has been challenged by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who said he would institute court action to set aside the purchase.

Turns Back On Society To Become Rancher Out West

Socialite Learns Right Words For Boss, But Can't Roll A Cigarette Yet

SAN FRANCISCO — Perfection in the use of ranch language and in a manner to make a real rancher out of her, has enabled Mrs. Roma Ware, New York, Paris, Pebble Beach and Del Monte socialite, to make a success of a 3,000 acre sheep ranch in Nevada, she admitted in a recent visit here.

Furthermore, Mrs. Ware, formerly Mrs. Henry H. Wehrman of New York, declared she was getting the "kick" of her life out of it.

"It's a hard life," she admitted, "but I love it. And the natives are marvelous. I have the deepest sympathy for these ranchers who gamble year after year with the elements of Nevada. They are real people."

But to make a ranch succeed, Mrs. Ware asserted that you have to learn to talk "ranch talk" and talk it in a manner that will make things hum.

"I'm learning to talk rough enough now to make the ranchers understand," she admitted. "You know that the language that counts."

"I used to be a lady and say, 'Henry, what are you doing?' But now I stand back and shout, 'Hen-ry, what the — are you doing?' Then, too, I am beginning to know the difference between a cow and a steer."

Mrs. Ware bought her ranch after winning a divorce at Reno. She had never been on a ranch before except for the two months, while awaiting her divorce, and when the latter came on the point of going to Italy to settle down when she heard there was a sheep ranch in Nevada for sale. She decided to buy it.

The ranch is 32 miles from civilization. "If that is what you call it," she said, "and is located near Lake Pyramid."

"I couldn't even spell 'alfalfa' when I bought the ranch," Mrs. Ware declared.

However, I had a San Francisco architect build me a house of pink granite and canyon rock, the finest house he has ever built, and with a veranda all around it. From there I can watch the boys work in all the corrals. They hate it because I have binoculars and can watch them all the time to see if they work properly. They call me 'old lady'."

"I am thinking even of installing a loud speaker so that I can scare the life out of them by suddenly following to some loafing worker," Mrs. Ware is her own foreman.

"I couldn't find a competent foreman," she said. "I found I was going to have to learn. So I decided to take over the job myself."

She said her hardest experience

"I'm a first rate 'cat-skinner,'" she said, "and every time I see new government road equipment I look it over for a new gadget for my ranch. I grease my own tractor and I planned my own irrigation system."

"There is only one thing left for me to learn, and that is how to roll my own cigarettes."

Balloons Make Weather Notes

Recorders To Be Turned Loose When Hurricane Passes

WASHINGTON — Now the Weather Bureau is prepared to make detailed observations of the first full-fledged hurricane that smashes across one of its especially-equipped Southern observation stations.

The bureau has equipped seven of its stations with 210 automatic weather recorders which will be released on hydrogen—or helium-filled balloons when a hurricane passes over one of the stations. They are located at Raleigh, N. C.; Columbia, S. C.; Macon, Ga.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Montgomery, Ala.; Meridian, Miss.; and Houston, Tex.

The weather recorders—or "meteorographs"—will rise from 100 to 20 miles above the earth and record changes in air pressure, temperature and humidity. Tiny pen points will scratch the record on a plate of smoked glass. When the balloons burst, the meteorograph will fall to the earth, its shock cushioned by a bamboo framework.

"People living in or near the path of a hurricane," the Weather Bureau announced, "can help the bureau's hurricane study by keeping an eye out for fallen meteorographs, which are easily recognized by their bamboo frames with stripes of red cloth attached to make them more conspicuous. The bureau pays three dollars for the return of each instrument as directed on a tag tied to the case."

The number of meteorographs to be released by each weather station will vary according to the hurricane.

"If the 'eye' of the storm—the calm area, sometimes 10 miles in diameter, in the center of the storm, surrounded by winds that blow at velocities up to 200 miles an hour—passes directly over a station, the instruments may be released every hour," the bureau said. "As the 'eye' approaches and recedes, they may be released every two or three hours."

Life goes on in Czechoslovakia despite the threat of war that hangs over the central European republic in the serious Sudeten German minority crisis. This striking picture shows a farmer near Prague

Secret Service Men Boss For President Roosevelt

"No" of Secret Service Overrides President When Life of Nation's Head Is in Danger

WASHINGTON — Franklin Delano Roosevelt may be President of the United States but he has a boss. The boss happens to be a small agency of the Federal government that shuns publicity—the Secret Service.

Frank Wilson is its head, with offices in the Treasury department in Washington, but upon Col. Edwin Starling, tall, rangy Kentuckian, in charge of the White House detail, falls the responsibility of seeing that all is well at all times where the President and his family are concerned.

Consequently, they plan for the chief executive and he acquiesces. On his travels Mr. Roosevelt perhaps might think it a better route to drive down Market street in the city of New York, but if the Secret Service says no—well, that's that.

Why? Because for days before he visits a certain city, Col. Starling has been there before him, discussing protective measures with the chief of police riding over the route mapped out for the inevitable parade, approving this and rejecting that. Pleas of local officials that he stop here and there fall on deaf ears if Starling thinks there is even the slightest element of danger.

Some persons are convinced that it is Secret Service opposition that keeps Mr. Roosevelt from using airplanes in his extensive traveling over the country.

"Suppose he insisted on flying, what could you do after all?" a Secret Service officer once was asked.

"Lot of things," he replied. "The simplest thing we could do was suddenly to discover the plane unsafe and have it grounded."

However, excessive speed in travel is not one of Mr. Roosevelt's demands. He likes to go comfortably and rarely does his train or automobile exceed 50 or 60 miles an hour—even when he is behind schedule.

Stationed at White House When he is in Washington, the Secret Service maintains routine vigil—at his office door and in the lobby of the executive offices and at night within the house. Secret Service men are assisted there by the White House police, picked men recruited from the Metropolitan force in Washington.

Following immediately behind is a specially-built, touring car carrying six to eight other operatives, all of them well armed, who can pile out at a moment's notice and surround the President's automobile when it slows down and the usual crowd gathers.

They work quietly, frown on strong-arm methods unless the occasion absolutely demands it and appear to be as self-effacing as possible under the circumstances.

College Men Enlisted But the Secret Service like everything else seems to be going in for streamlining.

More and more, the agency which was formed originally during the Civil war to combat Southern spies, is recruiting young college men within its ranks, lured no doubt by the glamour of the job. The day of the heavy-footed, heavy-handed operative is over.

As a matter of fact, the White House detail now has several men who hold college degrees.

When Secret Service men are not guarding the President they are out in the field on the only other activity in which they can, under the law, participate—the running down of counterfeiters.

And, strangely enough some prefer that to the White House.

TINY CHILDREN TAUGHT SAFETY

Drive Miniature Autos On Streets Laid Out In Playgrounds

MANSFIELD — Nearly 500 pre-school age children were taught traffic rules during the summer by driving toy automobile in the streets of miniature cities laid out in playgrounds.

Police Patrolman Fred C. Beals, of the Mansfield police department, and a playground instructor, Betty Braden, supervised the unusual traffic education program.

The children now have a thorough understanding as to the meaning of the "stop", "caution" and "go" signals of traffic lights because miniature streets traffic was regulated by small lights," Beals said.

Too Early to Read

Although the children could not read—they were from 4 to 6 years old—they know now the meaning of traffic signals and of miniature pedestrian lines.

He said that he and Mrs. Ruth Beals, a kindergarten expert, devised the system to train the child in an early age in the principles of road safety so that these principles would eventually become automatic with him.

The program works along the same line as the beginner in school learns to write," Beals said. "After he is taught the fundamentals of writing, he practices it until it becomes a thing that is second nature to his subconscious mind."

Six Miniature Cities

Miniature cities were set up on the Mansfield playgrounds and one at a Shelby playground to carry out the traffic education program. One group of children were the pedestrians and another group were the toy automobiles.

Beals said that the children who entered school this fall know how to cross streets safely on their way to and from school.

They know what the signals of a schoolboy patrolman mean," he said.

The schoolboy patrolmen are on duty at each school intersection.

Traffic experts have praised the Robins' and Beals' program. Other cities have asked for information on it with the intent of inaugurating similar systems.

Not one school age child has been killed in Mansfield during the nine years that Patrolman Beals has directed the schoolboy patrol program at the city school buildings.

TULARE, Cal.—A streamlined and, possessing the fighting qualities of a hawk and the solemnity of an owl, which was holding down the center of a highway near here and refused to yield even to an approaching truck, was finally subdued and captured after a hard fight. It was identified by experts as a bittern which had gotten out of its native habitat of marshes.

Seeking a Justice

Main topic of discussion was choice of candidate for Supreme Court seat vacated by Justice Benjamin Cardozo's death.

POLES MAY SET ALTITUDE MARK

Large Balloon to Leave Ground For Stratosphere Oct. 1

WARSAW — The largest balloon ever to leave the ground is expected to ascend into the stratosphere about Oct. 1.

The balloon "Gwiazda Polski"—star of Poland—will carry Capt. Zbigniew Burzynski, twice winner of the James Gordon Bennett Races, and Dr. Jodko Narkiewicz, to a height designed to enable them to make scientific observations of cosmic rays.

Made entirely in Poland, the egg shaped balloon is nearly 400 feet high and has a capacity of 134,000 cubic meters. It will be filled with hydrogen, although the United States offered to provide helium. Time was not sufficient to permit delivery of the non-inflammable gas from America. The hermetically sealed, black and white painted gondola is 6 1/2 feet in diameter and is of a new type light metal, hydronalium.

Although this is primarily intended to be a scientific flight, from which much valuable data on cosmic rays and stratosphere conditions is expected to be won, the two balloonists anticipate breaking the altitude record of 22,000 meters. They expect to rise as high as 27,000 meters.

The noted balloonist, Capt. Jan-usz Hynek, could not be included in the crew as originally planned because of the weight of the instruments to be carried.

All preliminary preparations have been completed. The balloon will be made ready for ascent in the Chocholowska Valley. There the crew will await favorable meteorological conditions for the takeoff.

The noted Belgian scientists, August and Pohann Picard, will be present for the start of the flight.

BURLINGAME, Cal.—Jerry Gova, gardener, one day found a tarnished bracelet while he was mowing grass. He gave it to his children as a toy. Noticing it later on, he tried a little polish on it. It took on a new sparkle. He took it to a jeweler to see what it was. It was a platinum bracelet set with 144 diamonds with a total value for the bracelet of more than $1,500.

MURDER SCENE IS PLAYLOT NOW

Police Recall Time When Site Was Known As Death Spot

CHICAGO — Chicago's bloody "Little Hell" where 42 men were slain in 18 months two decades ago is a paradise for youngsters today. Softball, baseball, boxing and bowling have replaced shotgun slugs, pistol bullets and stilettes in the old murder-mart.

"Death Corner", hub of "Little Hell" by virtue of its high death-rate, has lost its chill magic in the Chicago Avenue police station. But Police Capt. Tom Harrison remembers when the half square-mile on the Near North Side was the hotbed of unsolved murders instead of the home of Seward Park, Ely Beach, and numerous playing fields.

"It's all been changed now, even the names of the streets," he said. "And the greatest change has been brought about by a number of doctors and lawyers. They have substituted active sports clubs for the street gangs that formerly provided training in car-stealing and petty thievery."

Milton Street Renamed

The intersection of Milton and Oak streets, "Death Corner", is now Cleveland and Oak. Townsend street, for many years the address of numerous victims of mysterious murders, now is Hudson ave.

Even a decade ago, Harrison said, the trouble calls from "Little Hell", which usually meant murder, were so frequent that special details were assigned to various corners.

In contrast, Patrick Congdon, who has been the juvenile officer at the Chicago Avenue station for a number of years, says today: "If things keep on as quiet as they have, we won't even need a juvenile officer here."

42 Murders in 18 Months

Unsolved killings in "Little Hell" in pre-war days included that of Giuseppe Giglio, whose death in 1911 was the 42nd in 18 months. The murder of Santo Lubruzzo in his doorway in 1914 was the 28th of that year.

"And the leaders of this section are still Italians," Harrison told the interviewer. "But these young men who have changed 'Little Hell' are professional men who want to see the youngsters get a break."

"La manero nera" or Black Hand was the terror of the district during the big profit days in the bootleg trade after prohibition. The young fellows, once recruited to fill the gaps in the gunmen ranks, are now more interested in

ITALY BOOSTS MOTOR OUTPUT

Production 45 Per Cent
Period In 1937

ROME — Although automobile production in Italy showed an increase of 45.2 per cent during the first six months of this year over the corresponding period in 1937, supply cannot keep pace with demand.

Ominous war clouds over Europe are the main cause for this shortage. It started during the Ethiopian campaign and has grown progressively worse since.

Italian automobile factories are working 24 hours a day for the government. In addition to manufacturing cars for private users, three daily shifts of workers are busy turning out trucks, motorized equipment, rifles, cannons and other equipment to prepare Italy for any eventuality.

Self-Sufficiency Is Theme
There also is another factor. Ever since sanctions were enforced during the Ethiopian war, Italy has built for self-sufficiency wherever possible and has reduced imports to a minimum for materials unobtainable in Italy.

Italy produces no steel and most of that imported must go into forging a powerful war machine. Consequently, the ordinary Italian citizen who wants to permit himself the luxury of a car must pay the price—which is very expensive—and wait months before his order can be filled.

Despite war exigencies, the production has increased. A total of 31,391 cars were turned out in Italian factories between Jan. 1 and June 30, of this year, as against 21,626 during the same period in 1937.

Of this year's total, 21,021 were touring cars. During the first six months of 1937, Italy produced only 12,672 pleasure cars. This represents an increase of 65.9 per cent.

There were 3,197 trucks produced during the first six months of this year, as against 2,285 during the same period in 1937, an increase of 40 per cent.

Several Models Popular
The most popular automobiles in Italy are the Fiat and the Lancia, followed by the more expensive Bianchi. The Fiat and Lancia are popular all over Europe to judge by the number owned by non-Italians. Fiat has a factory in France which turns out cars for French consumption.

In the luxury class are the Isotta-Fraschini and the high-powered racing type Alfa-Romeos and Maseratis. Until two years ago the Alfes were supreme in the racing field, winning the lion's share of laurels against the German Mercedes and Auto-Unions and the French Bugattis.

There is no question that the demand would be even greater but for the high price. The smallest and cheapest car on the market is a four-cylinder Fiat, nicknamed Topolino (Mickey Mouse), which costs 12,000 lire ($600).

The Fiat six-cylinder model, Ford and Chevrolet in size, costs 30,000 lire ($1,500). There is an in-between four-cylinder model which costs 21,000 lire ($1,050).

Where 11 Were Killed in California Train Wreck

Air view of wreckage

Here is the tragic result of a crash between two sister trains of the Southern Pacific railroad near Niland, Cal., in which 11 persons were killed and more than 100 injured. Railroad officials blamed the sudden unexplainable decision of a brakeman in throwing a sliding switch for the wreck.

Hidden Taxes Rouse "King Anthony", Throne Pretender

LONDON — A policy abolishing debts, dumping and indirect taxation, so that cigarettes will be sold at 10 for 2 cents and beer at 8 cents a quart, has been announced by Anthony Hall, known as "King Anthony," pretender to the throne of Great Britain.

In his latest manifesto, the eighth issue, "King Anthony" states that a copy has been lodged with the registrar, College of Arms, Queen Victoria street, London. It bears the imprint of the Tudor rose and carries a genealogical tree, purporting to show the descent of the Tudors, Erskines, Guelphs and Wettins. At the bottom of the Tudor branch figures Anthony Tudor ("King Anthony"), born 1898. It is noteworthy that he puts his kingly title in quotes.

The policy, signed "Anthony, King of England, King of Ireland, Prince of Wales," reads:

"Since the capitalists rebelled against the crown in 1688, they have been piling up huge war debts, which now total $40,000,000,000, the interest on which (more than $1,000,000,000 a year) is wrung out of the people by indirect taxes (on beer, tobacco, tea, etc.) and poured into the pockets of tax-eating parasites who live in idleness. Further, the capitalists have made huge loans to overseas countries which pay interest on these loans by dumping farm and factory products into this country to the injury of our own industry and agriculture.

"This system of debts, dumping and indirect taxes shall cease. All central government debts, municipal debts and overseas debts shall be canceled and all indirect taxes (including local rates on shops and houses) shall be abolished. Thus all taxes will be removed from beer, whiskey, empire tobacco, tea, cocoa, entertainments, etc.; penny postage shall be restored; wireless licenses shall be free, with popular programs starting at 6 a. m. daily; all local telephone calls shall be free; washing and swimming baths shall also be free.

"The abolition of local rates on houses and shops will bring rents down by about five shillings in the pound and increase the buying power of the people and expand the home market for farm and factory products.

"The cancellation of external debts due to this country will end debt-dumping of foreign farm and factory products in our home market and we shall grow more food. Agriculture shall be encouraged.

"Indirect taxes and local rates abolished, revenue will be raised by one tax only—income tax, with allowances for children. Each county will, as an administrative unit, meet its own local expenses out of locally collected income tax and then pay the surplus to the central government. No borrowing or debts will be permitted.

Ravenna Passing Attack Is Dangerous Threat To Quakers

RAVENS TO USE AERIAL ATTACK AGAINST SALEM

Quakers Prepare to Stop Ravens Passing In Game Tomorrow

Stopping the dangerous aerial attack of one of the city's strongest passing teams will be the job which confronts Salem High school's Quakers in their second game of the 1938 grid season against the Ravens tomorrow night.

The Ravens, who will be remembered for the splendid passing attack they displayed at Reilly stadium last year when they battled the Quakers to a 13-13 tie, wrecked from Buchtel with their aerial attack last week and are intent on repeating the same trick on the Quakers.

Coach Carl Spessard of Ravens is an ardent supporter of a wide open game, replete with lots of passes, and his team, as a result, make their most dangerous offensive attack via the air lanes. Following the tried-and-true theory that a team can't rely on its own attack if the passer is rushed, Carl Schroeder sent the Quakers, especially the linemen, through a long workout on charge at Centennial park yesterday. Schroeder hopes that a hard-driving forward wall will form the bulwark of the Quakers' pass defense by rushing the Ravens' passer on every aerial attempt. Secondary will probably use a defense against the Ravens' passing.

Men in Ravens' passing attack are a pair of veteran ends, Ed Tamburro and Bill Fleishman, both of whom played against Quakers last year when Bob Heisler was the accurate-tossing passer. Heisler is gone from the Ravens team this year, having graduated last June.

The lone veteran in the Ravens' backfield is Paul Pugh, 19-pound, right halfback, who is the spearhead of the Ravens' running attack. Tony Simone, substitute back last year, and Wilbur Marsh also are considered the most dangerous passers.

In addition to Eds Tamburro and Fleishman, the Ravens' forward wall includes two other veterans in Russell Field, 170-pound tackle, and Bill Jebb, 170-pound center. Field and Jebb played against the Quakers last season. Schroeder has announced no change in the Quakers' lineup and probably use the same eleven started against Sebring last Friday night when the Quakers edged to a 39 to 0 victory.

The Quakers' line will probably be Bill Schaeffer and Dick Terrell at ends; Joe Vender and Dick Kunk at tackles; Clarence Woerther, Mike Guappone at guards and Ed Wukotich at center. Starting backs will probably be Bud Dean at quarter, Stuart Wise and Bill Rogers at the halves and Marvin Wukotich at full.

Because the game was transferred from Ravens this week, only three officials have been named. They are Ray Corl of Canton, and Joseph Landis of Cleveland. The other official is expected to be signed today. Salem and Ravens were originally scheduled to play at Ravens' stadium but the game was transferred due to a delay in erecting bleachers at the Ravens' new stadium.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY SID FEDER

(Pitch-hitting for Eddie Brietz NEW YORK, Sept. 29. — Pittsburgh pro football Pirates are plenty peeved about the rumors that some of the boys were sore at all the publicity for Whizzer White. They even took a vote on it—and now want to broadcast that the Whiz has "100 per cent cooperation" of every man on the squad. Here's three whoops and a holler for old Gabby Hartnett—who can still forget he's a manager long enough to win a ball game for those Cubs. Detroit Tigers are figuring on a pennant in 1940, with Schoolboy Rowe coming back and a flock of good looking rookies on the way up.

Swingin' Sammy Sneed looked over the field in the national amateur just before it started at Oakmont, picked Willie Turnesa and Johnny Fischer as the class of the tournament, then announced: "Those other guys play like they had nails in their shoes." That Minnesota backfield only averages 190 pounds. So what has Bernie Bierman got to sing the blues about. Looks like the Cardinals picked a winner in Chauncey Scott. They signed him from the semi-pros last year and he only fanned 280 for Paducah in the Kitty league this summer. The grapevine says Harry Stuhldreher has a passing attack at Wisconsin that belongs in the Southwest conference.

Col. E. R. Bradley figures on coming back to the derby with a big bang with Benefactor. Provided they can make this two-year-old travel the route like he's been stepping the daisies lately. Dana Bible is keeping mighty quiet about that freshman squad down at Texas U. The tip is out it's the Longhorns' hottest ever, and will be taking the southwest apart in a year or two.

Somebody asked Gabby Hartnett if Bill Lee and Clay Bryant wouldn't be awful tired by World series time, provided the Cubs win the pennant. "Not those guys," hollered Gabby. "All they need is a good sleep, a couple of steaks under their belts and some batters to stand up in front of 'em."

JULIANS START ATHLETIC CLUB

Open Training Quarters In Basement of Memorial Building

Announcement of the opening of the Salem Athletic club was made today by George and Julius Julian, directors. Training quarters for the club, which plans to develop amateur and professional fighters, are in the basement of the Memorial building. The club is open to all boys interested in learning to box. Twelve boys are now training at the club's quarters.

One of the most promising of the boys being handled by the Julians is Al DePerro, 19-year old farm boy, who has won 95 out of 97 amateur fights. DePerro, a light heavyweight, has been working out with former, midweight champion Teddy Yaro at the latter's camp near Monaca, Pa.

The Julians plan to introduce DePerro into the professional ranks in Pittsburgh next month.

CRONIN MOURNS AS TEAM LEADS BATTING CHASE

Boston Manager Claims All Sox Needed Was Pitching

By DREW MIDDLETON

Just off hand, Mr. Bones, who do you figure the most dangerous club in the baseball business at the plate? Correct. The Boston Red Sox. There are two big noises in the ivory industry these chilly afternoons. One comes from Chicago where the Cubs are hanging it on the Pirates—they did it 6-5 on Gabby Hartnett's ninth inning homer yesterday and took the league lead—and the other emanates from whichever ball park is entertaining the Red Sox or vice versa.

The Red Sox won another yesterday, 2-1 over the Athletics, which is a mild score for them these days. Mild in view of the fact the Sox are leading the American league in batting with 299 and boast six hitters above the .300 mark.

They have won 17 of their last 27 and Joe Cronin, the manager who is nudging the ball at a 325 clip himself, is pretty sure they and not the Yankees will be the team to beat in the American league race next year.

"Pitching," mourned Mr. Cronin, "that's it. If we had some pitching this year we'd be up there. Now we're getting a little, but not enough. But we can hit."

The Sox beat the Athletics yesterday with one of their less glamorous hurlers, Joe Heving, a veteran who has knocked around—and been knocked around—considerably. He gave the A's six hits, one of them Frankie Hayes' homer.

Joe Kraskauskas, the Washington Senators' left-hander, had one of his infrequent good days and beat the Yankees, 4-1, with five hits. This coupled with the Boston win cut the Yankees' lead to nine and a half games, which, with the pennant won, means exactly nothing.

Hank Greenberg got no further in his pursuit of Babe Ruth's home record despite the 12-0 rout of the St. Louis Browns by the Detroit Tigers. The big first baseman walked twice, struck out twice and popped up in five trips to the plate.

In the fourth American league game, the Chicago White Sox downed the Cleveland Indians, 14-11, with 14 players batting in one or more runs.

In addition to the Chicago-Pittsburgh donnybrook in the National league, the Cardinals outlasted the Reds, 8-7, and Boston beat Philadelphia, 3-1. The Dodgers and Giants weren't scheduled.

Ashland To Play With Small Team

ASHLAND, Sept. 29.—Frank Lonero's Ashland college football squad soared today to 19 men and the coach said Ashland would try to play out its Ohio conference schedule.

"Three more came out last week and two this week," he said, "but they're not football players. If we don't have any injuries we will try to play out our schedule but if we do have injuries we may have to drop a few games. We haven't decided which."

Lonero said while Ashland had asked Bowling Green to negotiate with Bluffton to fill the scheduled Oct. 8 encounter between Ashland and the Beegees, "we will try to put 11 men on the field" if Bowling Green can't obtain the game.

LIKELY STARTING PITCHER FOR THE NEW YORK YANKEES IN THE WORLD SERIES

Newark Winner

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 29.—The triumphant Newark Bears rolled homeward today to mark time before meeting the American association baseball playoff winners in the Little World series.

The international league champions won the Governor's cup yesterday after a close straight year when they stopped Buffalo, 14 to 6, to win the playoff finals, four to one.

Wrestling Results

ST. LOUIS—All Baba, 207, Kurdistan, pinned Ernie Dusek, 228, Omaha, Neb., 20-07.

DENVER—Everett Marshall, 218, La Junta, Colo., defeated Lee Wykoff, Nevada, Mo., 225 (Wykoff unable to return after each had taken one fall).

LOS ANGELES—El Pulpo, 200, Mexico, defeated George Zaharis, 220, Colorado, two of three falls.

Yanks Infield Better Than Probable Series Opponents

New York Inner Garden Stronger In Hitting and Fielding; Mack Says It's "Best"

(This is the second of a series comparing the prospective opponents in the coming world series.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Connie Mack, whose memory goes back to the Indian wars, says the New York Yankees of this year are the best ball club he ever saw. He probably was looking at the world champions' infield when the thought occurred to him.

In Lou Gehrig, Joe Gordon, Frankie Crosetti and Red Rolfe the bulwarks of baseball really have an elegant inner works. In fielding skill they are at least the equal of the quartet who perform for either the Chicago Cubs or the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are heading for a photo finish in the National league. As distant hitters and run producers they are miles ahead of their World series rivals.

This, despite the fact that both the Cubs and the Pirates have better-than-average infields — far the best in the National league this season. Neither has a really weak spot. Yet it is impossible to rank either with the Yankee four as a possible deciding factor in a World series, where sheer power is all-important. Sometimes power bows before a rush of great pitching but for the most part power is a comforting thing to have.

Taking them position by position, the Yankees must be conceded the best man at first and second. Chicago fans probably will debate the nomination of the Bookie Gordon over their great second sacker, Bill Herman, but the best opinion is that Herman has slipped a little this year and that Gordon, if not the best second baseman in the business today, is closing in on Charley Gehringer fast.

Red Rolfe at third is at least a stand-off for Chicago's Mack. Most baseball men consider him the best in the game. If that is true, then the Yankees need concede only one infield spot to their potential rivals — shortstop. Slugging Arkie Vaughan of the Pirates undoubtedly is a more valuable player than Crosetti, yet the little Italian is such a slick fielder and so fine a lead-off man that Vaughan's margin is less than it looks.

Gordon's inspired play at second base, his habit of snarling balls that few other infielders would touch, probably makes the Yankees a slightly tighter defensive unit than either rival. They have helped their pitchers with 170 double plays up to now, compared to 160 for the Pirates and 135 for the Cubs.

Blades Win 2nd

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29.—The Cincinnati Blades boasted of their second victory of the season today, having beaten the Nashville Rebels, 34 to 0, in an American Professional league game last night.

OHIO STATE TO FACE HOOSIERS IN FIRST GAME

Bucks Open Season Saturday Against Indiana Grid Squad

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29.—Ohio State's grid team—a tough outfit according to outside experts but just a better-than-average squad to the downtown coaches of the Buckeye capital—will play its 1938 campaign "the hard way."

Coach Francis A. Schmidt, warning the folks not to be too optimistic, cited these mournful memories: Fullback Johnny Rabb, counted on to do most of the ball-toting, is out for most of the season with a torn knee ligament.

The two teams which beat the Bucks in 1937, Indiana and Southern California, are the first two on the schedule, the Hoosiers coming up Saturday and the Trojans the following week.

Sophomores, one at center and two in the backfield, threaten to do Schmidt's wide open style of play little good until they gain a bit of experience under fire, and by that time may be too late.

The attitude of the experts is a complete "flipover" from former years. In the past downtown coaches of Columbus have sung the praises of the Bucks, while the outsiders have done the "belittling."

SCHMIDT FEARS INDIANA BACKS

Takes Threat of Six-Man Backfield Literally; Stresses Defense

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29.—Francis Schmidt, the Ohio State head coach, apparently has taken that "six man backfield" threat of Bo McMillin literally.

Schmidt has been stressing defense for his squad as Saturday's tussle with Indiana draws nearer. Pass defense has drawn a good deal of Schmidt's attention, but yesterday he added to it a drill on the possible use by the Hoosiers of that new-fangled "six man backfield."

The "six man backfield" had its origin shortly after the Big Ten interspersed meeting which barred the "five man backfield" the wily McMillin used in previous seasons at Indiana. After the meeting, McMillin remarked that he'd have to use a "six man backfield."

Bo has shaken off the supposed tragedy of losing his pet by commenting that "the only value" of the "five man backfield" was "to waste the other coaches' time thinking about a defense."

But Schmidt remembers that 10 to 0 defeat the Hoosiers handed him last year, a defeat which kept the Buckeyes from tying Minnesota for the big ten title.

From the offensive passing drills the Bucks have gone through in practice, a strong and dangerous aerial game has been indicated for this year. Chief passers on the Schmidt squad are Mike Kabealo, a veteran who has been shifted to quarterback, and Sophomore Don Scott.

Kabealo, in addition, will carry a good share of the Buckeyes' punting duties, being aided by Howard Wedebrook, another veteran.

Chief worry for Schmidt was that at right guard, Both Ed Hofmayer and Nick Rutkay were on the injured list and it appeared that Bill Nosker, 200-pound Sophomore, would draw the starting assignment.

OHIO STATE

One thing is certain—the Buckeye backers won't be amazed if the team loses a couple of games, an attitude that would have constituted high treason a year or so ago.

The starting lineup which has emerged from several weeks of workouts is a heavy but speedy one. The line averages about 210 pounds and the backfield, most of Ohio's offensive hopes are wrapped up in big Don Scott, 200-pound left halfback from Canton. The sophomore is a triple-threat luminary and key man in the backfield. He has shown exceptionally well in practice tilts with the reserves and freshmen, but needs testing before the 50,000-up crowds which will pack the Buck stadium for the big games.

Lettermen back in the fold are: Ends—Ross Bartchey, Keith Bliss, Esco Sarkkinen and Wendell Lohr; linemen—Charles Gales, Joe Alekuk, Nick Rutkay, Alex Schoenbaum, Carl Kaplanoff and Vic Marino; backs—John Rabb, Frank Zwadorney, Forrest Fordham, Howard Wedebrook and Michael Kabealo.

Kabealo and Kaplanoff are co-captains.

The schedule: Oct. 1—Indiana; Oct. 8—Southern California; Oct. 15—at Northwestern; Oct. 22—Chicago; Oct. 29—at New York U.; Nov. 5—Purdue; Nov. 12—at Illinois; Nov. 19—Michigan.

Cubs Lose Galan for Season

Augie Galan on ground

Suffering a serious leg injury while sliding into second base in the first game of the crucial series with the Pittsburgh Pirates in Chicago, Augie Galan, star Cub outfielder, is pictured on the ground with teammates around him. Galan will be lost to the team for the remainder of the short season.

FEREBEE ENDS GOLFING TOUR

Completes 600-Hole Marathon to Win $10,000 And Mortgage

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—J. Smith Ferebee, the enduring Chicago golfer, has $10,000, the mortgage on a house he values at $50,000, and a couple of sore feet today.

Ferebee completed his trans-continental golf tour at the Salisbury Golf club, Westbury, L. I., last night with the final 36 holes of the 72 he played there yesterday. He rammed his last putt home at 10:30 p. m., thus finishing well under the conditions of his bet which included 600 holes of golf with a maximum of 100 strokes per 18 holes on the four-day tour. The limit expired at midnight.

Ferebee arrived in New York yesterday morning after playing 72 holes in Philadelphia averaging 89 for the four rounds.

His record for the trip: Sunday, Los Angeles, 84 holes, and Phoenix, Ariz., 81; Monday, Kansas City, 72, and St. Louis, 72; Tuesday, Milwaukee, 72, and Chicago, 75; Wednesday, Philadelphia 72 and New York 72.

INJURIES JINX OHIO GRIDIRON

Sad-Faced Coaches Moan Over Early Season Injuries

Though the football season is hardly upon us, injuries to players are making heavy inroads upon what is left of the coach's optimism. To wit:

Two of Coach Frank Wilton's regulars were out of Miami University's lineup yesterday, causing Wilton to view with at least a tinge of alarm the Redskins' prospects against Mt. Union Saturday. Halfback Jerry Williams is out with a kneecap bruise and Guard George Fogarty with a dislocated elbow.

At Kent State, Halfback Bob Pettis' injuries were considered sufficiently serious to cause his retirement for the season. However, End Jimmy Jones and Guard Joe McElia were recovering from injuries and probably will start Saturday against Heidelberg's Student Princes.

Heidelberg will enter the fray without Fred Dougherty of Warren, a veteran guard whose ankle was hurt two weeks ago in scrimmaging.

Coach Hafeli of Kenyon remarked sadly that the loss of two regulars indicated at best a close fight against Denison Friday night. Defiance, which will meet Detroit Tech there Saturday, lost End Burf Enorf because of a dislocated shoulder. Coaches were stressing running plays and pass defense.

Wittenberg rested much of its hopes for victory against Ohio Northern on the return of John Kostop, star back, who was hurt in an early scrimmage. Halfback Lawrence Law of Lorain has been groomed as a possible starter for the Lutherans.

Coach Clem Crowe of Xavier's Musketeers told his huskies they must "stop" Johnny Montgomery if they expect to win over Ohio university. He emphasized aerial work.

Coach Frank Lonerer of Ashland, whose problem is scarcity of material, greeted Clyde Hare, a former lineman, with open arms when he reported for duty. Hare may be used as a fullback. Lonerer, whose squad numbers an even 20 candidates, said "if we don't have any injuries we will try to play out our schedule."

FRANCE HIDES ART TREASURES

Priceless Possessions To Be Rushed Into Special Vaults

PARIS — France already has taken precautionary measures to save from possible aerial attack her priceless art treasures, museum collections, national monuments and fine buildings.

But aerial bombs can be dropped on every inch of French territory the moment war begins and France is fearful that her attempts to save such treasures as the Cathedral at Rheims may be fruitless.

The program for constructing air-bomb shelters in Paris included those for hospitals, barracks and ministerial departments, and museums. All were completed a year ago. Museum keepers and a specially trained squad of municipal workers can be mobilized for the placing of these treasures in vaults the instant hostilities begin. The same plans are being pushed for all of the provincial museums of importance.

Under the Department of Beaux-Arts—a branch of the Ministry of Education—a complete classification of all art treasures, private as well as public owned—is now complete. It is understood that the department already has prepared to round up such treasures in case of hostilities.

Spanish Methods Adopted

From the experience of the Spanish war modern methods of protection of public buildings and statues have been studied by this department and will be applied in case of war. Sand-bag forms will be built around statues and the walls of buildings will be reinforced with sandbags and props. Precious stained-glass windows of churches will be removed and stored away in bomb proof shelters.

There remains great anxiety about the fate of art treasures in case of war. The principal fear is that of sudden and massive air bombardments. In such a case, not only would all important French cities be open to attack, but the immediate utilization of anti-aircraft defense would force the aggressor planes to high altitudes where accuracy would be limited. Instead of direct objectives, such as official buildings, anything in their vicinity would suffer.

A striking example of this fear is expressed in a national petition now circulating in France, demanding that the government remove an important military air base from the town of Chartres for fear that the cathedral will be destroyed in case of war.

Leetonia Sunday School to Observe Rally Day Sunday

LEETONIA, Sept. 29.—Rally day will be observed at St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school on Sunday at 9:30 a. m. There will be no church service. The children of the primary department will present a short program.

The Past Noble Grand club of D. Wallace Rebekah lodge No. 279 met at the I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening. A covered dinner was served at 6:30 for 12.

Ohio State students who will return to school this week are: Roma Salvino, Arthur Nicolette, Thomas Ready, Gordon and William Royal, David Patterson, Ruth Middleton is enrolled as a freshman.

Kenneth Wagenhouser is substituting at Leetonia High school in the absence of Carl Hendershot.

Miss Helen and Glenn Strouse left Wednesday for a visit with relatives at St. Louis, Mo.

VISALIA, Cal.—The gold rush in California has now become so keen and competitive that "prospectors" have even pushed their search into dentists' offices. The offices of three dentists here were robbed in a single night by thieves who took only what gold they could find.

CLEVELAND—Howard G. Swanson, a Cleveland Institute of Music graduate, and postal worker, has been awarded a $1,500 scholarship for a year's study in Paris by the Julius Rosenwald fund to further the cultural and sociological development of the American Negro.

First Authentic Czech Mobilization Picture

Here is a scene in the main square at Prague, the morning after the amazing six-hour mobilization of hundreds of thousands of Czechoslovakian soldiers. This is the first authentic picture of the mobilization to arrive in the United States, showing the little republic ready to withstand the attack of Germany. It was flown to London and flashed by radio to New York.

CHAPTER XXIV

Tod was almost always in town now and seemed to require practically no sleep. He was always discovering new places to take Whitney to dance, a new entertainer whom he thought she would like. But they didn't spend all their time dancing. They joined a gymnasium and did a lot of bowling and swimming. They went for long walks, usually on Sunday mornings, coming back to the apartment to have a late breakfast with Helena who belonged to the school that believed that Sunday mornings were created for the purpose of sleeping and nothing else.

The second week in December, Jay gave up his job and flew his own plane to Chicago to see Ginny who was playing there. He went with the express purpose of persuading her to come back to New York. But he returned alone. A week later, he sailed with Whitney and Helena on a Christmas cruise to Nassau. At the last moment they persuaded Tod to sail with them. He left New York with three clean shirts, his toothbrush and the pleasant conviction that when he returned he would probably be minus an exceedingly good newspaper job. But at the last minute he had not been able to face Christmas in New York without Whitney.

By this time it was becoming increasingly difficult for Tod to be with her and not let her see how things were with him. But somehow he succeeded. Mostly because he believed that she was the one who would distress her and make her unhappy and spoil something precious and important that they now had.

So it was Jay and not Tod who made love to Whitney in Nassau. Who, to her utter astonishment, asked her to marry him. He said: "You think I am crazy but it might be a good idea. We're two fairly attractive, amusing people who are in love with someone else. We might make a great success of being married to each other."

Whitney said: "Your trip to Chicago turned out badly and you're in just the brittle mood to try anything... but marrying me wouldn't make up for not having Ginny."

Jay smiled grimly. "I'm not sure. Won't you at least consider it, darling? You can't go on forever alone... some day you'll get unbearably lonely and when you do perhaps you'll let me console you. Let's hold the offer open, shall we?"

Whitney said: "All right. But I doubt if I ever take you up on it."

Three days later they were home and Whitney found a letter waiting for her from Hester Prentice. Olivia's baby had died of pneumonia in Cleveland and Hester wished that Whitney would come to Boston.

"If only for a few days. I am no longer very young and the months which pass so swiftly for you move much more slowly for me. And now that Adam is gone I feel more and more lonely and miss you increasingly."

Whitney left within a few hours without seeing either Jay or Tod. All the way to Boston she told herself that she had been unforgivably selfish and that whether she wanted to visit Boston or not she should have forced herself to do so, if for no other reason than Hester. But arriving there she was intensely relieved to find that Olivia and Scott were still in Cleveland. Hester was sad about the baby. She said: "It was a frail child but Dr. Wren saw no reason why Olivia shouldn't take it home with her... but it must have caught cold on the train. Compartments are not nurseries and it was such a tiny baby."

Whitney thought: "It was such a tiny baby to have such a big responsibility. Perhaps it realized it and didn't want to take it." She wanted to write Olivia that she felt badly and that she was sorry for any unhappiness she had ever caused her. She wanted to say: "But all that is over. Completely finished. For a long time I have not thought of Scott at all and I shall never think of him again in any way, except, as belonging entirely to you."

But she didn't. She simply wrote that she was sorry about the baby and in a few days she went back to New York.

Helena met her train. She said: "Jay sailed for Europe on the Rex yesterday. He asked me to give you this letter."

Whitney read it as a cab whirled them from Grand Central to Murray Hill. It was a brief letter... a mere half page. It said in part: "Forgive me, darling, for asking you to marry me in Nassau and then walking out on you like this less than a week later. But I guess you are right about us, Whit. I find on second thought that I don't want to have share a wife, even so charming a one as you would undoubtedly be, with some man I have never seen in Boston. I'm having my plane shipped to Rome and I'm going to do some stunt flying for the Italian government and with any luck there may be a war within a year or so. I hope your weekend in Boston was satisfactory and that eventually you will be able to work out some sort of solution to your problem just as I may to mine... but I am dreadfully convinced, Whit, that you were right and that marrying you would not have been it."

Whitney finished the letter and folded it carefully. She said: "It is a strange thing, Helena, that a weekend in which I did not even see Scott may have been the means of preventing me from spending the rest of my life with Jay."

Helena said: "I suppose that for some time now I have hoped that things might work out that way for you... but perhaps it's better that they didn't."

And then, almost before they knew it, it was another Manhattan springtime.

With Jay gone, Whitney found herself spending it almost entirely with Tod. And she was gay and relaxed and more like her old self than she had been for months. Watching her, Tod thought: "She is forgetting Scott... in time she may forget him completely." And by April he was thinking: "In time and if I am very patient and do not hurry her, she may even come to love me."

And then one day crossing Fifth Avenue at Fifty-ninth Street he ran into Olivia.

She was glad to see him. She said: "I have something to tell you, Tod... couldn't you take me somewhere and buy me a cup of tea?"

He took her into the Plaza. He thought: "Something has happened to her... something pretty terrific. She's prettier than I have ever seen her but she's awfully brittle and much too thin."

He said: "I thought you had something to tell me."

She said: "I have I'm divorcing Scott. I'm leaving for Reno tonight. When I come back I'm going to marry Spencer Scofield."

Tod stared at her. Olivia was divorcing Scott. When she came back she was going to marry Spencer Scofield. And Scott would be free. Scott would be free to marry Whitney. Suddenly he felt a little sick. He wanted to get up and walk out of the room. He wanted to say: "Excuse me, Olivia, but you have just crashed my world about my head and I am a little sick and I need to get out in the air..."

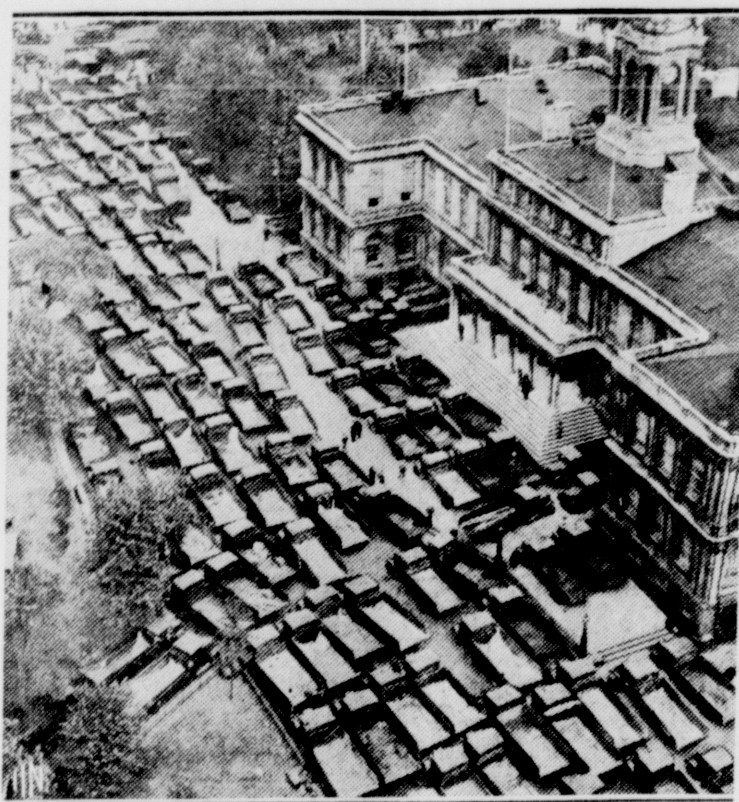

He wanted to say: "Excuse me, Olivia, but I hate you at the moment more than I have ever hated anyone... you are very pretty sitting there in your smart new clothes, looking so good, but you have just crashed my world about my head and I am a little sick and I need to get out in the air..."

He looked at her now, thinking that he would willingly have given ten years of his life not to have to tell her what he was about to, and said: "Stop fussing with your hair and come here."

She turned her head and smiled at him and put the comb back in a dull gold purse. Then she came toward him, the silk of her dinner dress rustling softly as she moved, its tight little taffeta jacket outlining the slenderness of her figure.

City Trucks May End Strike

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's proposal to end the trucking strike was met with a refusal by the trucking companies, although accepted by striking drivers. The mayor then threatened to break the strike by using city trucks to move perishables. Here are hundreds of reconditioned Department of Sanitation trucks parked around New York's City Hall, waiting word from the mayor to move.

liantly. He had also grown better looking. Features which had been amiable but unstartling had sharpened into definite attractiveness. The lean planes of his cheeks, the sensitive, firm-lipped mouth, the straight dark line of his brows gave his face decisiveness, a pleasant maturity. Yet where Whitney was concerned he was as little sure of himself as he had always been and as inarticulate.

He looked at her now, thinking that he would willingly have given ten years of his life not to have to tell her what he was about to, and said: "Stop fussing with your hair and come here."

She turned her head and smiled at him and put the comb back in a dull gold purse. Then she came toward him, the silk of her dinner dress rustling softly as she moved, its tight little taffeta jacket outlining the slenderness of her figure.
